

ROOSEVELT, LEHMAN READ MESSAGES

Governor Would Bolster Social Program, Protect Water, Realign Districts

Annual Address Before Senate and Assembly Also Includes Recommendations for Amendments to Unemployment Insurance Law, but Without Specific Statements

Council for Youth

Included in Recommendations Is That Advisory Group Aid Youth of State

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP)—Strengthening of the state's social program and legislation to protect public water power resources and provide a reapportionment of legislative districts were proposed today by Democratic Governor Lehman.

Addressing a joint session of the Senate and Assembly as the 1939 Legislature got underway, the Chief Executive recommended "several legislative amendments" to the Unemployment Insurance Law.

The law was the target of bitter campaign attacks by Thomas E. Dewey, Lehman's nearly successful Republican opponent for the governorship, who asserted it had failed through "poor administration."

"The administration of the law has not been perfect," the Governor admitted. "We have not attempted in any way to conceal these imperfections."

Urging corrective amendments which he did not specify, he said "the unemployment insurance law requires the advisory council to make recommendations to your honorable bodies for such amendments."

Among recommendations included: Establishment of a new agency in the executive department, to substitute for the state housing board, and to direct, stimulate and coordinate housing programs with the aid of a $500,000 state fund the Legislature is expected to create.

Make all state appropriations for housing contingent on financial participation by federal and local governments.

Postponement pending a "thorough study" of the proposed creation of a state health insurance system authorized by a new constitutional amendment.

Avoidance of imposition of restrictions upon local governments or "fostering" mandatory expenditures on them in extending their home rule powers.

Adoption of a constitutional amendment at this session to provide for reapportionment of legislative districts.

Regulations to bar wire tapping by any prosecutor or public official on the ground that "dictatorship, persecution, tyranny and oppression have been the weapons of unlawful, seizure and wire tapping."

Public Water Resources
Development of public water resources under state ownership and state control, and legislation to safeguard against their possible alienation by private interests for private gain.

Immediate legislation to effectuate a constitutional amendment authorizing free transportation of children attending non-public as well as public schools.

Reiteration of strong recommendations for the establishment of mortgage banks under state regulation, "empowered to issue debentures secured by general assets, the major portion of which would be real estate mortgages."

Tightening of labor laws to end evasion of employer obligations of compensation, unemployment insurance, prevailing rate of wage and the minimum wage laws.

Youth Advisory Council
Creation of an advisory council on youth in the executive department to "draft a broad constructive program which will seek to stimulate cooperation between labor, industry, local communities and state services to the end that the young people of our state be made useful American citizens."

State regulation of fee-charging employment agencies, which the Governor said would give the reputable agencies "protection against racketeering competitors."

Funeral Services Are Held for Boys At West Hurley

County Officials and Residents Attend Dual Rites for Two Who Drowned Saturday in Ashokan Reservoir

A double funeral service for the two West Hurley lads who lost their lives last Saturday by drowning in the Ashokan reservoir was held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the West Hurley M. E. Church.

The ceremony was perhaps the most largely attended service ever held in the church and both the church auditorium and the adjoining Sunday School room were filled to capacity by friends of the two young lads, Clark Vredenberg, 15-year-old son of Deputy Sheriff and Mrs. Clayton W. Vredenberg, and Robert Ostrander, 11-year-old son of Town Clerk and Mrs. Clarence J. Ostrander.

The services at the church were conducted by the Rev. John B. Glenwood, pastor of the church. Among those attending the services were several county officials including District Attorney Cleon B. Murray, Sheriff Abram F. Molyneux and a number of fellow officers of Clayton W. Vredenberg from the sheriff's office. A detail of state troopers under the command of Sergeant James Cunningham and John Hopkins attended the service and acted as guard of honor from the church to the Woodstock cemetery, and to the West Hurley cemetery.

The state troopers were assisted by a corps of deputy sheriffs in uniform and in plain clothes who assisted in directing traffic and in parking the large number of cars. The entire center of the church was banked with floral tributes from friends of the two lads and their families.

The Rev. Mr. Glenwood, who conducted the double rites, said that the untimely death of the two young lads was not only a distinct shock to the community, but a distinct loss, as both of the boys were fine types of young manhood. He paid high tribute to the lives of the two boys and expressed sympathy of the community to the bereaved families.

The church building was filled to capacity with friends and many were unable to gain admission to the building.

During the service Mrs. Benjamin Johnston, soloist at the First Dutch Reformed Church, Kingston, sang "Saved by Grace," and "No Night There." Mrs. John H. Saxe presided at the organ.

The bearers were companions of the two lads. Albert and Robert Nussbaum and Everett and William Sawyer were bearers for Robert Ostrander, and Paul Rowe, Claude Haines and George and Audrey Berry were bearers for Clark Vredenberg.

At Woodstock cemetery the Rev. Mr. Hudson of Woodstock officiated and the Rev. Mr. Glenwood officiated at West Hurley cemetery.

Ordered to Leave France

Valenciennes, France, Jan. 4 (AP)—As punishment for participating in the November general strike, 250 Polish miners and their families, who long ago had lost their Polish citizenship, were ordered today to leave France.

White Would Ease Financial

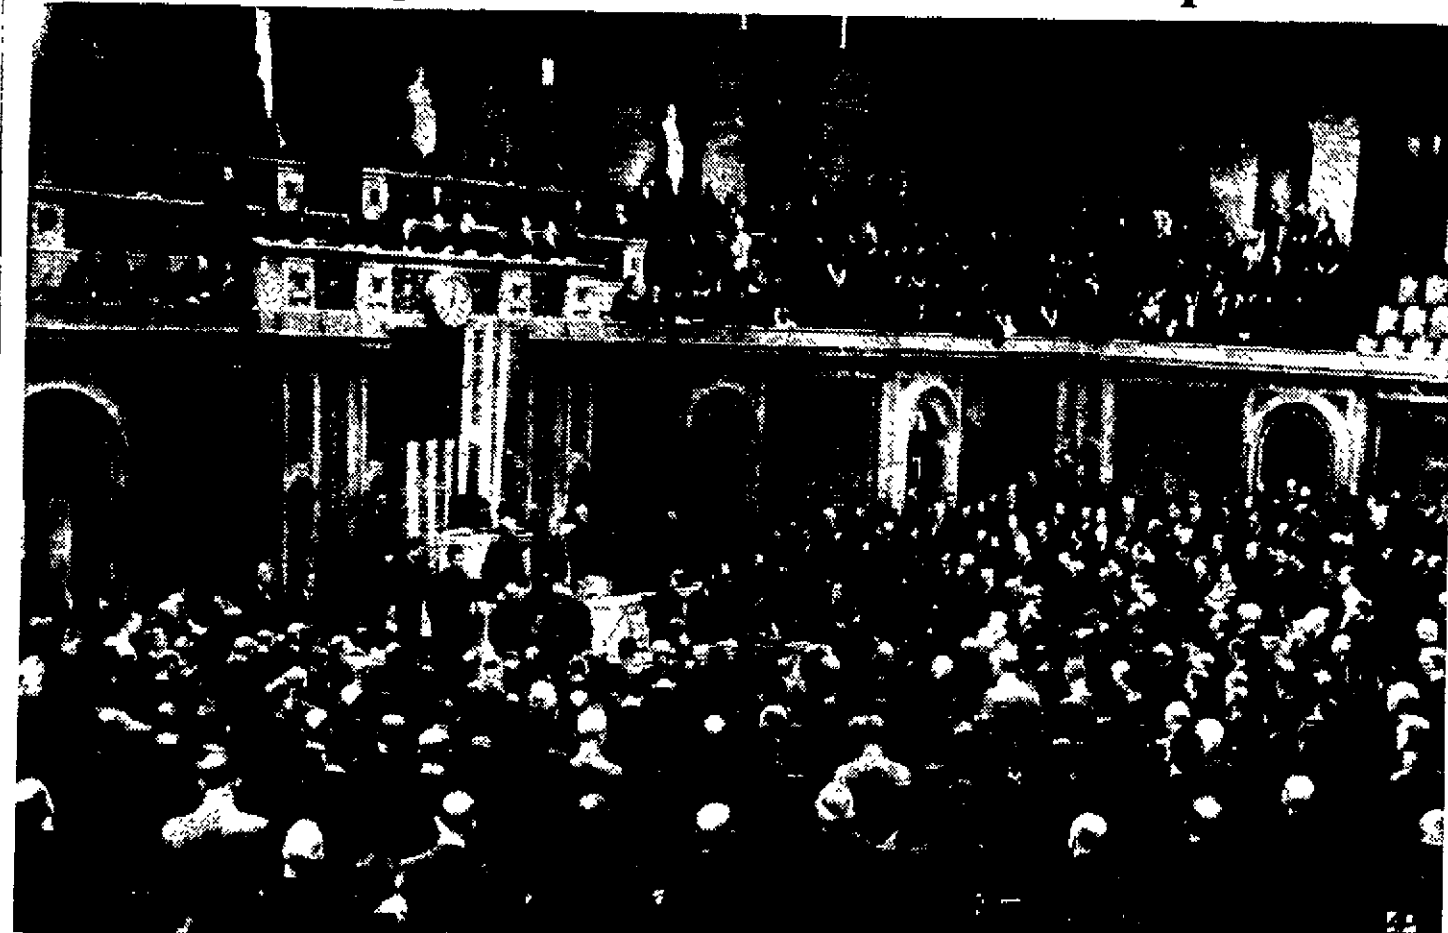

Demands to Aid Policy Sales

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP)—Easing of the financial requirements of savings banks authorized by a four-day-old New York law to sell life insurance was urged today to promote their greater participation.

Superintendent of Banks William R. White, in his annual report, noting "only a few institutions at this time intend to offer this new type of service," urged abolition of individual contributions by policy-issuing banks to guaranty funds.

He proposed substitution of a "central fund" into which all participating banks, including those acting as agents for policy-issuing

76th Congress Convenes Under New Amplifier

Beneath an amplifying system (top center) designed to make the voice of even the faintest representative easily heard, the 76th Congress held its opening session in the nation's capital. Congressmen have dubbed the address system the "flying coffin." This general view of the House of Representatives was made as the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, house chaplain, delivered the invocation.

19,000 Police Get Emergency Call in New York's Strike

LaGuardia Would Have Tax Trouble Involving 11,000 Drivers Settled at Once; Violence Is Feared

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Fearing repetition of violence that marked the last major cab strike here in 1934, Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia moved today for an immediate settlement of a strike of 11,000 taxi drivers called by the Transport Workers' Union (CIO).

The city's 19,000 police were in full emergency duty—for the first time since demonstrations attending the Sacco-Vanzetti executions in Massachusetts in 1927—as the mayor arranged for the conference today.

LaGuardia said he would attempt to get both sides to agree to arbitrate the issues with the state labor mediation board, the "agency set up to deal with situations such as this."

Flying stones caused the first damage reported to police after the walkout began yesterday afternoon. Queens police said four or five men in a sedan hurled bricks at the cab of a struck company.

Crushing groups also were reported to be warning drivers at taxi stands to park their cabs "or you'll be sorry."

Although 5,000 individually owned cabs were unaffected, there were visibly fewer taxis on the streets. Scores last night were forced to turn to subways.

Officials of the major taxi lines claimed 50 to 80 per cent of their cars continued in service, but union spokesmen insisted at least 7,400 cabs were stalled in garages.

Union demands include renewal of a closed shop agreement, increase from 42½ to between 45 and 50 per cent in drivers' commissions, one-week vacations with pay, a nine-hour day and "elimination of racketeering in the industry."

In a telegram to Mayor LaGuardia N. M. Seymour, president of the Terminal System, Inc., largest cab company here, charged the strike resulted from a dispute "between two rival labor organizations."

Common Council Adopts '39 Tax Budget

Aldermanic Board Accepts $38.96 Rate per Thousand Without Dissent—Donnarumma and Nathan Inject Criticism of Method of Setting Bond Matters in Budget

The 1939 city tax rate was fixed Tuesday evening at $38.96 per thousand valuation by the common council when it unanimously adopted the tentative tax budget submitted by Mayor C. J. Helselman.

The budget was adopted without a dissenting voice among the aldermen.

This year's tax rate is four cents higher per thousand than the 1938 rate of $38.92.

The budget as submitted by Mayor Helselman calls for the raising by tax levy of the sum of $898,234.52.

Alderman Donnarumma of the Sixth Ward said that he voted for budget adoption as no objections to the budget had been raised by those attending the public hearing last month. He said that the mayor in his annual message on Monday had called attention to the fact that this year the city would retire $213,000 in bonds, and that the mayor had recommended that the council authorize a $200,000 bond issue this year for home and water relief. If no other bonds were issued it would mean that there would be a reduction of $13,779.91 in the bonded indebtedness. He thought this was not accurate and that it would set a bad precedent.

Alderman Zucca of the First Ward said that he did not quite understand Alderman Donnarumma's remarks.

Alderman Nathan of the Eighth Ward said that what Alderman Donnarumma intended to convey was that this year the water board would retire $40,000 in bonds and the education board would retire $25,000. These two boards raised their money, one from revenue for water and the other by a separate tax each year, and for that reason the amount of bonds they planned to retire this year should not be included in a statement of the city's general bonded indebtedness.

In other words, Alderman Nathan contended that instead of the bonded indebtedness being reduced $13,000 it would be increased some $50,000.

Alderman Zucca in reply said that this was erroneous as the total indebtedness had to include all bonds issued by the city, no matter what board issued them. He said that the water board and the education board could not float a bond issue without first receiving the authorization of the common council.

City Treasurer Lester C. Elmen-dorf sent in a request asking for authorization to borrow $50,000 in anticipation of the collection of taxes. The request, which was authorized unanimously, reads as follows:

I hereby request your honorable body, in anticipation of the 1939 tax collection, to authorize the issuance of temporary certificates of indebtedness in the sum of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000.00) if, and when needed to defray such city expenses as may be necessary until such time as funds are received from the collection of 1939 taxes, the said certificates of indebtedness to be paid out of said 1939 tax collections when received.

In 1938 a similar request was made to your honorable body and another part of the defense program received attention yesterday when Rep. McCormack (D-Mass.) introduced a bill providing for an army air force totaling 10,000 airplanes and 100,000 reserve pilots. He presented it at the request of the Army and Navy Union, an organization of former service men.

The Navy report gave no estimate of the probable cost of the project, but a much smaller program which failed of enactment last year called for an outlay of about $28,000,000.

The recommendation that Guam and other Pacific Islands be made air and submarine bases appeared likely to contribute little to Japanese-American cordiality.

Guam, virtually demilitarized since the signing of the lapsed 1922 Washington naval treaty, is only about 2,000 miles from Tokyo. Unalaska, in the Aleutian Islands, favored as another advanced base in the report, is little farther.

Emperor Orders That New Cabinet Be Formed at Once

Fascist-Inclined President of Privy Council Would Succeed Konoye Whose Cabinet Resigns

Tokyo, Jan. 4 (AP)—Emperor Hirohito tonight commanded Baron Kichiro Hiranuma, Fascist-inclined president of the Privy Council, to form a new cabinet in succession to that of Prince Fumimaro Konoye.

Hiranuma, outstanding nationalist, was summoned to the palace after the comparatively liberal Konoye had resigned with the declaration that the war in China had come to a stage where new policies "under a new cabinet" should be formulated.

The 13-month-old Konoye cabinet fell before strong militarist-nationalist demands for reorganization at home and abroad for renewed efforts to hasten Japan's will on East Asia.

It was an onslaught of Fascist-minded elements who want a single political party for Japan, more rigid control of economic life, and a new administrative policy in China.

Feeling was so intense that in some quarters fear was expressed for the personal safety of some of the retiring ministers, especially the elderly finance minister, Seishin Ikeda.

Ikeda, an angry extremist groups last November when he blocked army demands for government control of corporation capital, dividends and investments.

The baron headed the Kokuhonsha (Nationalist Japan) party, which recently had been inactive but which at its inception advocated support for the army, the emperor and "Jippinism," which includes all the advantages of Nationalism, Fascism and Communism.

Now 73, Baron Hiranuma was minister of justice in 1922 and frequently before had been mentioned for the premiership.

Prince Konoye, 47, professing to liberal views, became premier

President Says 'Storms From Abroad' Challenge Democracy in America

Chief Executive Declares 'Deadly Armaments,' 'Undeclared Wars' and 'New Aggression' Threaten Three American Institutions, but Names No Nations—Cites Costs of Dictatorships

Senators Drafting Specific Measures To Stop 'Politics'

New Restraints Would Be Imposed on Those Who Would Use Relief Funds to Further Political Schemes

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—Senators began drafting specific legislation today to impose new restraints on the political use of relief funds.

Both Democrats and Republicans predicted early enactment as they studied the report of the campaign investigating committee, which recommended tighter restrictions on electioneering by WPA workers and government employees generally.

The report said relief funds in many instances had been diverted "to political ends."

Senator Hatch (D., N. M.) was working on two measures designed to check political maneuvering by government workers. One would bar political activities by federal employees other than those in elective or policy-making positions. The other would place restrictions on both federal workers and on state employees whose salaries are paid in part from federal funds.

Hatch, who was unsuccessful in putting through similar legislation last year, expressed confidence favorable action would be taken at this session. Senators Bridges (R., N. H.) and Schweikert (D., Wash.) were among those who voiced a similar opinion.

Senator Barkley (D., Ky.), the majority leader, said the campaign committee's recommendations for restrictive legislation would be referred to the Senate elections committee.

Senator McNary (R., Ore.) added that he would ask to have the report referred to the commerce committee for study in connection with the nomination of Harry Hopkins to be secretary of commerce. Hopkins formerly was WPA administrator.

The report fixed no responsibility on Hopkins for the conditions which it denounced, but severely criticized Aubrey Williams, Hopkins' deputy administrator, for telling a meeting of relief workers in June, "we've got to keep our friends in power."

(Williams was designated recently by President Roosevelt to head the National Youth Administration, an appointment not requiring Senate confirmation.)

On the other side of the Capitol House appropriations authorities predicted that the extra relief fund would be voted quickly and that such proposals as earmarking funds for specific purposes would be considered later. They conceded, however, that the relief appropriations bill might provoke bitter debate.

Senator Bailey (D., N. C.) said the country "has reached the point where it can not do more than meet the actual relief needs."

Pleads Innocent

Philadelphia, Jan. 4 (AP)—Frank A. Craven, former deputy warden of the Philadelphia county prison, pleaded innocent today to murder and manslaughter charges arising from the death of one of four convicts who perished last summer in a super-heated punishment cell block.

'Deadline of Danger'

For "adequate defense"—and the President said "the deadline of danger from within and without is not within our control"—Mr. Roosevelt advocated armed forces and defense sufficient "to ward off sudden attack," and an organization of key facilities for prompt expansion.

He reserved details of this defense program for a later message next week, noting that recent world events had taught anew "the old, old lesson that probability of attack is mightily decreased by the assurance of an ever-ready defense."

But the President stressed also a third element needed, "a strong and united nation."

In meeting the troubles of the world, he said, "our nation's program of social and economic reform is therefore a part of defense as basic as armaments themselves."

For this program, Mr. Roosevelt

Lists New Peril

President Warns Against Isolated Neutrality Which 'Acts Unfairly'

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—President Roosevelt told Congress and the world today that peace had not been "assured" at Munich and that "storms from abroad" directly challenge American democracy.

Addressing a joint session of the Senate and House in a packed House chamber, the Chief Executive asserted that "undeclared wars," "deadly armaments" and "new aggression" threaten the three institutions indispensable to Americans—religion, democracy, and international good faith. And, he added, only through a nation united both physically and spiritually can these storms be kept from American shores.

"A war which threatened to envelop the world in flames has been averted. But it has become increasingly clear that peace is not assured," Mr. Roosevelt said, without mentioning by name the Munich pact resulting in the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia.

Names No Nation

Nor did he name any foreign nation. But the President referred to "events in Europe" where Czechoslovakia was dismembered at Germany's insistence, "in Africa" where Italy conquered Ethiopia and "in Asia" where Japan has invaded China.

All about us rage undeclared wars—military and economic," Mr. Roosevelt said. "All about us grow more deadly armaments—military and economic. All about us are threats of new aggression—military and economic."

Standing on the speaker's dias in the House chamber, the assembled members before him and Vice-President Garner and Speaker Bankhead seated at his back, President Roosevelt said the United States would solve by democratic means problems that dictatorships solve "by main force" and by using force "apparently succeed at it—for the moment."

"Costs" of Dictatorships
"Dictatorship," he declared, "involves what the American people will never pay."

Mr. Roosevelt enumerated as such costs, spiritual values, free speech, freedom of religion, confiscation of capital, concentration camps, "the cost of having our children brought up not as free and dignified human beings, but as pawns molded and enslaved by a machine."

The President said "we can and should avoid any action or any lack of action which will encourage, assist or build up an aggressor, or add to the danger."

"We have learned that when we deliberately try to legislate neutrality, our neutrality laws may operate unevenly and unfairly may actually give aid to an aggressor and deny it to the victim. The instinct of self-preservation should warn us not to let that happen any more."

"In meeting the troubles of the world, we must meet them as one people," he said. "Our nation's program of social and economic reform is therefore a part of defense as basic as armaments themselves."

For this program, Mr. Roosevelt

'Schutz' Guard Organ Resents Recent 'Hitler Parties' in U. S.

Berlin, Jan. 4 (AP)—Das Schwarze Korps, official organ of the black-uniformed Schutzstaffel Guards, bitterly attacked West Virginia students and a national magazine today for making fun of Chancellor Hitler in connection with the "Hitler Party" pictured in a December 5 issue.

A full page editorial was captioned in huge letters "USA" but to each of these were added letters in small type, which made the caption read "Unverschämte!" (insolent), "Schamlos!" (shameless) and "Albern!" (silly).

Das Schwarze Korps said in part: "If we were not such barbarians who resolutely decline to imitate the kultur of others, the students of Heidelberg University would have to put on a beer stunt at which everybody would have to appear in the mask of President Roosevelt."

"If the mass imitation of that noble head should present difficulties, there still would remain the possibility of troubling the inmates of the monkey reservation of the Berlin zoo because then the mask moulders would not have the least difficulty."

In its pictorial feature the magazine showed a party given by students of Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity at the University of West Virginia, at which every male guest wore a Hitler moustache and brownshirt uniform.

Death Toll Now 19

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 3 (AP)—Upstate New York counted 19 dead today as a result of accidents over the New Year's four-day week-end. Thirteen were victims of traffic mishaps, five of them in grade crossing accidents. There was one coasting fatality, one hunting fatality and another person burned to death in a fire in her home. At Lowville, three lumberjacks were found dead in their automobile in a snowdrift. Dr. Lawrence N. Campbell, coroner, said the trio apparently had died when their auto was caught in the drift New Year's night. The deaths, by communities included, Hudson—Mrs. Herbert Ewen, 28, her car hit a tree.

Speaking Course Will Open At Local YMCA, January 16

The adult public speaking class at the Y. M. C. A. will open for a 12-week course Monday evening, January 16, at 7:30 o'clock, it was announced today. Registrations for the session are being received at the "Y" or with Mrs. Ellis T. Bookwalter.

The text-book which has been selected for the course is "The Will to Speak Effectively" by Lee Norville, head of the division of speech and director of radio broadcasting at Indiana University. The book is included in the tuition charge and registrations should be made during this week, so the books will be ready for distribution at the first meeting.

Classes will be held every Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, and will be of two to two and a half hours' duration. Among the subjects to be discussed will be: Preparation of a speech, presentation of speech types, expository speech, persuasive speech, argumentative speech, impressive speech and after-dinner speech. Most of the time will be devoted to the practical application of public speaking techniques and various conditions under which one is often forced to speak, will be executed.

TILLSON

Tillson, Jan. 4—Captain Deyo and wife left Sunday morning for their home in Philadelphia after a delightful visit at the home of his parents and other relatives in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Emerick were the guests of her sister, Miss Schutt, at a New Year's dinner at Maple Arch Homestead, Hurley, Monday. Others present were Miss Schutt, Mr. and Mrs. Everett V. K. Schutt and children, Marvin and Carol, Mrs. Alice Metcalf and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Metcalf and wife, of Kingston. After dinner all went to the home of Miss Schutt on Albany street to spend the rest of the day.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society will be held Thursday, January 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Winkley have returned from St. Petersburg, Fla., where they spent their honeymoon.

Erastus Freer came home from the hospital at Kingston last week Friday.

Zina Coutant slipped and fell on ice and strained his knee.

Walter Allen of Brooklyn spent the holiday vacation with the Rev. Anson Coutant. Other guests at the Coutant home were a nephew, Irving Warren, of Jamaica, L. I., over the week-end, and Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Coutant on Monday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cole and daughter left New Year's Day for Miami, Fla., where they will spend some time.

Stamps In The News

The five-stamp pictorial set which El Salvador recently produced clings to the old style of border emphasis, but the central vignettes are interesting, clean-cut and nicely engraved by the American Bank Note Co.

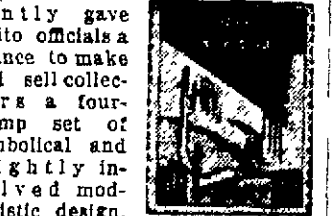

The regular issue came very shortly on the heels of the commemorative set of four airmail stamps, issued on August 18, to mark the centenary of the death of J. S. Canas. These, too, were printed by the same company.

Princesses On Stamp

Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose, attractive daughters of George VI, will be pictured on the green 1-cent stamp of the trio to be issued by Canada next summer to mark the visit of Britain's king and queen. The brown two-cent stamp will depict the national war memorial which His Majesty will unveil next May. And the portraits of the king and queen will appear on the 3-cent stamp which will be red and of large size, as at present.

Ecuador's Exposition

Exhibitions and fairs have become a standard excuse for stamp issuing. The Progress of Ecuador Exposition recently gave Quito officials a chance to make and sell collectors a four-stamp set of symbolic and slightly involved modernistic design.

These stamps make a conscious and successful effort to be different from other Ecuadorian designs.

The 10-centavos bright blue shows a winged person holding the earth on his shoulder and floating in space with the greatest of ease. The 50-cent deep red-violet works into its design a cactus plant and a winged wheel. Wings again are found on the 1-sucro red-brown which shows an airplane, train and human figure carrying a bag, all representing "Communications."

Modern buildings decorate the 2-s green which is headed "Construction." All of the stamps in this set are dated 1930-1937.

The post office department took in a total of $639,036 on first-day sales of the 32 "presidentials." Altogether, dealers and collectors bought 7,970,722 stamps on those first days of issue, and of these 2,416,082 went on first-day covers.

The 39-cent Theodore Roosevelt stamp brought in $20,120.10 when it came out on December 8, meaning a sale of 67,067 stamps. The 10-cent stamp netted $31,285 on the same first day, representing 62,567 stamps.

Mooney May Go Free

Sacramento, Calif., Jan. 3 (AP)—Tom Mooney, imprisoned nearly 22 years for conviction of the bloody San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing, may be a freeman Saturday through action of California's new governor, Culbert D. Olson. The governor, inaugurated yesterday as the first Democratic state chief executive in 40 years, set Saturday as the date for hearing Mooney's petition for a pardon. Governor Olson's often expressed opinion that Mooney is innocent, led many observers to believe the greying prisoner would be granted a pardon at conclusion of the hearing.

St. Mary's Holy Name Communion

The communion breakfast committee of St. Mary's Holy Name Society will hold a meeting this evening at 8 o'clock. Final reservations for the breakfast will close Friday night.

The Holy Name Society will receive Holy Communion in a body at the 8 o'clock Mass on Sunday morning, January 8, immediately following the Mass breakfast will be served to some 400 men in St. Mary's Hall. During the breakfast a program of music, both vocal and instrumental, will be given. At the conclusion of the meal a short speaking program will be enjoyed. The principal speaker will be Arthur J. Hilty, former corporation counsel of New York city, who is well known in Kingston.

The spiritual director of the society, the Rev. William H. Kennedy, and the pastor of St. Mary's, the Very Rev. Monsignor John J. Stanley, V. F., will also address the men.

Trinity Lutheran Ladies' Aid Will Hold Meeting Tomorrow

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid of Trinity Lutheran Church, Spring and House streets, will be held Thursday, January 5, at 2:30 p. m., in the assembly rooms.

This is a very important meeting, as election of officers for the coming year will take place. At this meeting also, each member will discover who her Pollyanna has been during the past year. Those present will then draw the names of their respective Pollyannas for the coming year. It is important that every member be present at this meeting for there will be no more Pollyanna drawings this year.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)
Never Say Die

Park City, Utah—Even the coming of winter—with its ice and snow—cannot halt the activity of football players in this mountainous district.

Addicts of the sport formed a winter league, flooded a field for freezing, dyed baselines in the ice, then buckled on skates for the fastest football yet.

Biblical Beginning

Encino, Calif.—A new parish of the Episcopal Church will hold its first services here Sunday in a barn on the ranch of Edward Liverett Horton, motion picture comedian.

Rev. Harley Wright Smith, pointing out that the birth of the parish in its stable atmosphere was "not unlike the birth of Christianity," picked for his sermon topic:

"A few dumb animals and a number of wise men."

Mail Delivery

Kewanee, Ill.—The correspondence school lessons on nursing hadn't reached twins yet, but youthful Mrs. Robert Ernest wasn't daunted.

At the hour of Mrs. Wilbur Hollars' accouchement at her nearby farm home the physician was delayed. Mrs. Ernest, 19, a student by correspondence of a Chicago nursing school, did the best she could.

It was enough. The twins, Vivian Ann and Harold Dean arrived safely. They were children No. 4 and 5 for Mrs. Hollars, 35.

PHOENICIA

Phoenicia, Jan. 3.—William Lange has gone to Ormand Beach, Fla., for the winter. He has employment there.

Charles Donivan is enroute to Texas where he will spend the winter.

K. Misner, who ran the Victory Store, resigned recently and took the agency for the Prudential Insurance Co.

Thomas Nollner has returned to Syracuse University after spending the holidays with his people.

Mr. and Mrs. Adlan Loomis were Hobart callers Sunday.

Adelbert Kilmer was in charge of the concession at the Ski Hut over the New Year's week-end.

Miss Virginia Verschoor of New York city spent the holiday season with friends here.

Mrs. Helen Wyckoff of Kingston spent the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Ernst.

L. Riley and family of High Mount visited H. Boone on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Kulmer and Adelbert spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. William Boles at West Hurley.

Bishop Neumann's Life and Labors Are Told in Brochure

January 5 marks the 79th anniversary of the death of a saintly, learned churchman, the Ven. John Nepomucene Neumann, C. S. S. R. D. D., fourth Catholic bishop of Philadelphia (1852-1860). Born in Pischowitz, Bohemia, on March 28, 1811, his love for the American missions led him to sail for New York in 1836. That same year he was ordained priest for the New York diocese, where he labored for four years. He then became an American Redemptorist missionary. He was consecrated Bishop of Philadelphia, March 28, 1852, on his 41st birthday. He died in his episcopal city in the odor of sanctity, January 5, 1860. On December 11, 1921, the Holy See declared this servant of God had practiced virtue in an heroic degree, and that further steps might be taken towards his beatification. The life and labors of this great ecclesiastic have recently appeared in a 17 page pamphlet. The author is the Rev. Albert H. Wauke, C. S. S. R. B. S. S., professor of Sacred Scripture at St. Alphonsus, Esopus. The brochure may be obtained at the Mission Church Press, 1515 Tremont street, Boston, Mass.

ENCOURAGING OUTLOOK HERE

The air is filled with expressions of good cheer for the future with the confident expectation that this will be a good year. In Mayor Heiselman's annual message to the Common Council an optimistic note was sounded in the matter of the elimination of the proposed railroad crossings of the city.

Approval of the elimination of the principal crossings, which would include the Broadway crossing, is estimated to cost about $4,000,000. The plan, which calls for depressing the tracks, should result in large expenditures for manual labor and should provide much needed work at good wages for many local men. The Constitutional Amendment in relation to elimination of grade crossings was passed by the people at the last general election. Passage of an enabling act in the Legislature is all that is necessary to get this work underway. The long and bitter controversy over the elimination of the Broadway crossing death trap is well known by local residents. The main objection of the New York Central Railroad to elimination of these hazards by depressing the tracks was the huge cost involved. The railroad's share would have been fifty per cent. Due to their financial plight, the railroad's share is now cut to not more than fifteen per cent based on improvement not essential to elimination. With the state shouldering the financial burden, which means the taxpayers will pay, the removal of the crossing hazards here should be at last a reality.

Kingston, in common with other communities in the land, is having a struggle with its relief-welfare problem. Jobs here are few and hard to get and tax burdens for relief are high, when the reduced incomes of taxpayers are considered. Work of crossings elimination here should prove a big help, giving a brighter outlook for the year.

New York city's aqueduct work should also give employment to many Ulster County men. With shafts for the Delaware supply completed, the next phase of the work is construction of the tunnel between Ireland Corners, Plattekill and Marlborough and under the Hudson river. The work to be started this year is expected to be continued for four or five years.

Increased travel to Ulster County resorts by visitors to the World's Fair should also greatly stimulate business here.

Business here during the Christmas season was reported by many local merchants as exceeding that of former years and they are optimistic of the future and are already planning even a higher degree of service for its customers from this trading area. With increased consumption and smaller unemployment rolls in prospect, the local business outlook is encouraging.

The encouraging signs here, however, give no sound reasoning for indulging in extravagance or foolhardy mortgaging of the future. We are still in a depression or recession and throughout the country there are still many millions of unemployed and our economic problems are not yet solved. The national budget has not been balanced. Neither have many state, local and family budgets. It is a very healthy state to be hopeful of the future but let us not get out on a limb by coaxing ourselves to believe that new economic cure-alls have been invented and that all our troubles will be soon at an end.

NATIONS LIKE PERSONS

One paragraph in Secretary Hull's closing speech at the Lima conference indicates an attitude toward international affairs not previously stressed by any government. He was speaking of the importance of friendliness as the basis for Pan-American agreements.

"If it is forgotten, personal experience makes it completely evident how delicate a task it is to create a wholly satisfactory friendship. Relationships dictated by force or created in the design of self-interest run along only until the force is broken or abused or until the self-interest changes. Then they end in disillusion or worse."

It has been observed many times that individual morals are far ahead of national morals. People treat each other better than nations do. Any governments that actually begin to apply to other governments the same principles of neighborliness, honest business dealing, cooperation for mutual benefit, and other attitudes characteristic of normal individuals in their everyday contacts, will have started on the right road to international peace and prosperity.

CANADIAN QUEENS

Canadian colleges have had more tact than to hold beauty contests and crown popular girls as "queens" with all the nonsense and heartburnings that usually accompany that sort of thing. So faculty and parents were shocked when such a ceremony was announced at McGill University, in Montreal, in connection with the Christmas prom.

But they needn't have worried. Sanity survived, and the only "crowns" visible around those classic walls were crowns of scholarship. When the ballot boxes were opened, there was not one vote for a co-ed. The nominees were Mussolini, Hitler, Greta Garbo, Mae West and some of the male professors.

It would be wonderful to have such common sense hooked up with education on this side of the unfortified border.

"While there is perfect confidence here in Mr. Chamberlain," says the French government, it wouldn't dream of putting him into the trouble of doing any "mediating" for France during his visit to Rome. Polite, but hardly complimentary.

American diplomacy is so crude—our statesmen are always shocking foreign governments by asking them to do something practical.

If individuals were like nations, half of us would be asking the others to give us their homes for appeasement.

There seems to be mutiny lately on the agricultural bounty.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.
DYSPEPSIA AT VARIOUS AGES

Most of us think of dyspepsia as poor digestion and that is practically the truth as dyspepsia means "difficult", "painful", "bad", or "disordered" digestion. All dyspepsias show that something is wrong somewhere in the body. I have spoken before of the work of Drs. Andrew B. Rivers and Antonio B. Mendes Ferreira, Mayo Clinic, in Journal of the American Medical Association, who showed that there are twelve very common causes of dyspepsia which account for about 75 per cent of all cases. Of these the most common cause was "functional". That is, the stomach was quite sound—no organic trouble—but it was not functioning or working properly, usually due to some nervous disturbance or upsetment. Functional causes account for about 25 per cent of all cases.

In a series of over 4,000 cases, Drs. Rivers and Ferreira record the causes of dyspepsia at the different ages. Thus at ages 15 to 21, the most common cause for men and women was still functional or nervous, and the next chronic appendicitis, the next in men was ulcer and in women migraine (one-sided headache).

In the next age group, 25 to 39, the most common cause for men and women was still functional or nervous, the next in men was ulcer, and in women gall bladder trouble.

In the age group of patients 40 and older, functional or nervousness stood second instead of first for both men and women. Peptic ulcer stood first for men and gall bladder trouble for women.

After 40 came practically the first case of cancer of the stomach, being 12 per cent of the total in men and 4 per cent of the total in women.

There are some important lessons in the above findings:
1. In young and middle-aged the outstanding cause of dyspepsia is functional (nervous) due to the way the stress and strain of life—exhaustion, worry, depression—interfere with the movements and chemical reactions in the stomach. It is this stress and strain that is also responsible for most cases of ulcer.

2. In women gall bladder trouble was as common a cause as the functional or nervous.
3. After the age of forty, although the functional, the ulcer, and the gall bladder disturbance, are still the most common causes of dyspepsia, cancer of the stomach is found in one of each eight cases of dyspepsia in men and in women one in each twenty-five cases.

NEW YEAR'S LOVE

by Angela Lorden

The Characters
Noel Marchand, a beautiful young actress.
Allan Collings, the man she loves.
David Norris, the man she is going to marry.
Yesterday: Noel learns that Allan is returning from Chile.
Chapter I
"Why Did I Come?"

"ALLAN'S boat arrives Thursday and I shall be in New York at the Lancaster Wednesday."

Noel had been expecting it, but somehow the significant written words before her set her heart beating wildly. She re-read Mrs. Marchand's letter from Claiborne until sentences danced before her eyes.

Will it always be like this?—she thought despairingly—will every mention of him hurt as much? She knew an emotion like this wasn't fair to David, and tried to steel herself into a calm acceptance of Allan's return.

Allan's coming on Thursday! Going to the theater in the evening, the wheels of the cab seemed to whirl over the message—never stopping until it was like a hammer beating against her brain. And in the third act reunion scene with Gerald, she almost forgot for a moment it was Susan welcoming Paul. Her heart wished it so fervently, she felt for an instant as if it were Noel, and Allan coming back to her.

"I've got a headache," she pleaded to Anita Swanstrom when the producer's wife came to her dressing-room and invited her to join their party at the Cairo.

"You're becoming a hermit," Anita admonished her. When Douglas added his persuasion and told her David was waiting in the office for them, Noel surrendered. She put on one of her evening gowns she kept at the theater for just such emergencies and pinned on the orchids which David sent daily.

"Don't you feel well, my sweet?" David held her hand in the car as the four were driven to the club. They were meeting Anita's friends at the Cairo.

"Just a slight headache," Noel replied in a tired voice. She wished, just then, David didn't make such a display of his affections before other people. And immediately she was penitent for the disloyal thought.

"I shouldn't have come," Noel thought distantly while she danced with David. This is the spot, her heart was telling her, as they moved slowly around the crowded floor. Noel wished she could go back to the time when she was a girl and all that had happened since New Year's Eve disappeared into a vague unreality.

In spite of Noel's resolutions to remain for a little while it was nearly four when David left her off at her hotel. They'd gone on to the Cairo for breakfast after leaving the Cairo and because David seemed to have such a pleasant time, she stayed on with the others.

"Some day soon I'll see Allan and maybe when I do, it won't be so bad. And some day I won't feel anything at all except love for David," Noel thought as she tried to coax sleep. And believed it, she had to.

Noel stayed in her dressing-room after the Wednesday matinee. She sent Clarabelle out for some hot soup and coffee, tried to take a short sleep, and that failing, read intermittently. Mrs. Marchand called her this way.

"I don't want to disturb you if you're busy, Noel," she apologized. "But I couldn't reach you at your hotel."

Noel warmed to the sound of the pleasant mature voice. Mrs. Marchand explained she was seeing again "Susan is waiting." "I've asked Mr. Whitaker—poor man, I'll get off the matinee and change into my clothes," she remarked.

"You'll come backstage afterwards, and bring him?" Noel asked cordially.

"A Fine Actress"
ARCHIE, the Mouse, as Allan had called him affectionately, was warmly enthusiastic when he greeted Noel. "I had no idea you were such a fine actress, Miss Marchand, and the play is delightful."

"Yes, it's a lovely play," Noel retorted. "Any experienced actress would be good in my part."

"I won't have you saying that," Mrs. Marchand interrupted. "You are perfect in it. I liked it even better tonight than at the opening. It grows on one. And I cried again at the end of the first act."

Noel exchanged polite conversation with the ex-school teacher. "If you'll give me a few moments, I'll get off the matinee and change into my clothes," she remarked.

As Mrs. Marchand started to leave with her escort, Noel suggested: "I'd like you to wait here, if you want to."

"We'll join you shortly," she added to Mr. Whitaker.

Sitting at her make-up table, rubbing old cream over her face, Noel said, staring into the mirror: "I always feel better, just talking to you. I can't believe that a few months ago, I hadn't met you."

Mrs. Marchand shook her head.

in agreement. "Our friendship was meant to be something important, Noel. It was fate, I tell you." She was silent a moment.
"So Allan will be back with you tomorrow?" There! Noel had said it quickly, gotten it over with. It wasn't so difficult.
"Isn't it heavenly? I can hardly wait through the hours till then. Mrs. Marchand's face held a rapt expression. "The boat docks at ten."

At ten, he'll be here, in New York! Noel busied herself with the towel, wiped the grease off her face, and dabbed on a new film of powder blindly.

"I'd like you to go to the pier with me, if you've time," Mrs. Marchand suggested suddenly.

Noel almost said, "Why, won't you be going with Elaine?" Instead she spoke slowly, "I don't know—if I can."

"Please try."

Noel's heart was pleading: Do you know what you're asking? But her lips gave a friendly consent.

At Mrs. Marchand's insistence the three had supper in her rooms at the Lancaster. She ordered a highball for Mr. Whitaker and wine for Noel and herself. "This eve calls for another celebration," she was happy and gay, anticipating the joy of tomorrow.

They talked again of the party in Claiborne that had brought them all together. Noel spoke of Elsie Grant and her success at the Denise shop. She mentioned the visit of Janice and heard with pleasure that Mrs. Marchand was keeping in touch with Jimmy and his mother on the upstate farm.

"I sent Jimmy his puppy," Allan's mother told them. "He's a darling boy."

Mr. Whitaker broke in on the pleasant talk. "I wonder where we'll all be next Christmas." Not many more Christmases for him, Noel thought sadly.

"Perhaps we can all be together at my house," Mrs. Marchand suggested hopefully. The other two smiled encouragingly. "I won't be there—Noel whispered to herself—I'll be somewhere with David."

Hard To Bear

SOON Noel reluctantly said she must be leaving. Mr. Whitaker went with her. They walked the few blocks to her hotel, while Allan's old teacher spoke of his years in the school where Allan had once been his pupil.

Noel was early, stopping by for Mrs. Marchand's next morning. She hadn't needed the phone call from the desk to arouse her. Her eyes opened when the sun came up and she'd lain quietly, sorting out her secret thoughts. By the time she met Mrs. Marchand she was reconciled to thinking of Allan as a friend, even to thinking of him—

"I'm so excited, I can't manage my fingers," Mrs. Marchand exclaimed breathlessly. She was fumbling with the pin at the neck of her dress.

"Here, let me do it for you," Noel offered, surprised that her own hands were steady.

They were half an hour early when they reached the pier. Two executives from Allan's office greeted Mrs. Marchand, were presented to Noel.

One of them, a Mr. Thomas, talked casually with Noel. "Are you a relative of Mrs. Marchand?" he asked.

"No, just a friend."

The other man Noel never did remember his name, went to inquire about landing time and while he was gone, they sat in the wicker chairs of the waiting room impatiently.

"It seems like we've been here an hour already," Mrs. Marchand protested.

"Only ten minutes," Mr. Thomas laughed understandingly.

People were passing before them. Other visitors arrived to greet returning passengers, employees of the line dashing about.

"Good morning, Elaine," Mrs. Marchand spoke in a clear voice that reached the tall girl in her trim tailored suit and silver foxes, just entering the room. It wasn't until Noel heard the greeting that she saw Elaine Schuyler.

The stately blonde with graceful strides was at Mrs. Marchand's side, leaning down kissing her cheek.

"Didn't think you'd be out this early," the older woman said briskly.

"Such an occasion as this?" Elaine's voice held suggested interest, conveying the meaning: Did you think I wouldn't be here to meet Allan? She turned and saw Noel.

"Hello, there," she said in an off-hand manner.

"Good morning, Mrs. Schuyler."

Noel was coolly pleasant.

"The boat will be an hour late in docking," he reported.

Noel had been thinking: I won't be able to bear it, watching them meet, seeing Allan with her. Why, why did I come?

She decided quickly. "Not for an hour?" Her regret was friendly, not too stressed. "I'm so sorry, but I have an engagement before that I do hope you'll forgive me if I run along."

And somehow she was away from them—away from Elaine, going down in the elevator to the street.

Congress Has Reconvened and Jockeying for Political Positions Seems Apparent in Most All Moves.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)

Washington, Jan. 4.—Congress has reconvened and the 1940 presidential campaign has just begun. That's about the most succinct way to describe what is happening in the national capital this week.

Maneuvering has started and jockeying for political position seems to be apparent in most of the moves being made. And when it comes to maneuvering, there is one man in the picture whose shrewdness and skill are sometimes underestimated, and that's the President himself.

Mr. Roosevelt has gone ahead despite the advice of friends and supporters, but his political batting average is still very high. It is significant that he has made little comment since the November elections, which means that the strategy of the present session will not be hastily or arbitrarily developed.

The President has not had time to reveal his plan of action, but little by little is bound to unfold. Some signs of it have come already with the discussion of a possible withdrawal of the reappointment of Donald Wakefield Smith of the National Labor Relations Board.

Mr. Roosevelt doesn't share the view that Mr. Smith has been a prejudiced misleader. He knows that the effort to punish Mr. Smith for his decisions—which did not materially differ from those of his colleagues—is nothing less than an attempt to force new personnel on the board and perhaps create a situation in which the Wagner law itself might be weakened.

But Mr. Roosevelt knows also the tremendous power of publicity which a congressional investigation brings out. It takes only a majority of the votes of the Senate to order an inquiry into the labor board operations and only a majority to refuse to confirm the reappointment of Mr. Smith. But it takes a two-thirds vote of both the Senate and House to change the Wagner law over Mr. Roosevelt's possible and probable veto of any drastic change in the law.

So, strategically, Mr. Roosevelt could avoid the risks of a possible defeat as well as a lot of adverse publicity on the labor board by making another appointment. Everybody knows he could force the Smith appointment through if labor itself were not divided—if, indeed, the A. F. of L. were not opposing Mr. Smith. He may yet decide to insist on Mr. Smith's confirmation. By eliminating a controversy and compelling the opponents of the Wagner Act to concentrate on amendments to the law itself, the President, however, would have the whip-hand politically. For there is no two-thirds vote in both houses for any reversal of policy on the Wagner Act. There will, of course, be some supplementary amendments which the administration itself may accept. This will tend to narrow the issues on the labor law or else to put the opponents in the position of seeking to frustrate the whole law—something that Mr. Roosevelt feels would make an excellent issue for 1940 either for himself or the candidate who is nominated to succeed him.

Mr. Roosevelt's adroitness in handling the political scandals over the relief problem is another example of political strategy. First, he moves Harry Hopkins and his associates out of the WPA and puts an army officer in charge. This is a good move because the public feels army officers are non-partisan and non-political. Next, the President lets it be known he likes the idea of

The Penguin Letter

"DEAR Willy Nilly," was the way the letter began and then it continued:

"You were so very kind to me last winter and kept my animals with you in your Empty House. My winter quarters are in good shape for them this year, but in my wanderings I was given two penguins."

"I haven't any place that is cool enough for them and I remember you have a pond in Puddle Muddle and your weather is cold and you are away from people."

"I thought you might like to have these interesting visitors. In the summer I am going to give them to a friend who is taking a trip far, far, far south where it is as cold as it would be far, far north. I feel they might like to go back home later on."

"But in the meantime I know they could be well and happy with you. And I thought you would enjoy them."

"The weren't very well for a while. Some one, on the trip to these parts, gave them fish that wasn't good. I suppose they thought any kind of fish would be all right. Some people are so ignorant. They are well now, and please give them butter fish, fresh herring and white fish. I shall leave an order to have a supply carefully packed and sent to you each week."

"When you give the butter fish be sure that they are cut on the bias so that the fish will not get into the penguins' mouths, and only give them the backs of the butter fish. I am sorry I cannot stop and see you but it is holiday time and I shall drop the penguins off as I go by. You'll get this letter before they arrive."

"Oh, yes?" cawed Christopher, looking at Sweet Face.

"I was quite sure you'd overlook my forgetfulness," bleated the lamb.

"We have indeed," smiled Willy Nilly.

Sweet Face knew that he had been forgiven.

ZENA

Zena, Jan. 3.—The annual business meeting with election of officers will be held at the Zena Country Club Friday, January 6. A dance will be held at the club Wednesday, January 11, and all are cordially invited to attend.

Miss Julia and Fred Thaisz of New York City spent the week-end with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hibyan.

Louis Thaisz, who spent the week here, accompanied them home Monday.

Louis Hibyan fell on the ice Friday night and fractured two ribs. He is under the care of Dr. Downer of Kingston.

Richard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Klementis, is seriously ill with pneumonia at the Kingston Hospital.

Mrs. Bertha Van de Bogert entertained Mr. and Mrs. John H. Saxe and family of West Hurley New Year's Day.

The many friends of Mrs. Palmer Cartright will be glad to hear that she is improving rapidly at her home from her recent illness and hopes to see her out soon.

Andrew Ebneth and friend of Catskill were callers in Zena Monday.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Baldinger on the birth of a son, William Bennett.

The Zena Christian Endeavor presented an altar desk to the Lutheran Church of Woodstock Christmas Sunday with the dedication service held the following Sunday, January 1.

HIGH FALLS

High Falls, Jan. 4.—The Ladies Aid of the Reformed Church will hold their monthly meeting Thursday, January 5, in the Reformed Church basement. All members are asked to attend because they are going to hold a quilting bee. At noon dinner will be served to the public.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Anderson, sons, Leif and Gordon, of Brooklyn, spent the week-end at their bungalow.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hallenbeck and daughter, of Ashbury, spent Sunday evening at the home of Mrs. Hallenbeck's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Miller.

Mrs. Benjamin Lipschitz and Miss Sara Feinberg have returned to New York after spending the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Feinberg.

Mrs. Constance Baker and Miss Campbell of Stone Ridge called on Mrs. Roy Ransom Friday afternoon.

Miss Harriet Church has returned to Freeport, L. I., after spending the holidays with her father, Oscar Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Anderson and son, Donald, of Kripplush, called on Mr. and Mrs. Peter Anderson Monday.

A unique delegate to the congress of national representatives at Nanking was Hsu Hsiao-chin, former battalion commander of the Chinese guerrillas. The congress met recently for the organization of a united central government of China and branded Chiang Kai-shek and his lieutenants as public enemies.

CREEK LOCKS

Creek Locks, Jan. 3.—Miss Virginia Coutant is visiting in New Jersey for a week with her relatives.

Mrs. J. Hennessy made a trip to New York to see her folks for a short stay recently.

Mrs. Fagen of New York visited Mrs. D. Sager for the week-end.

Mr. Hennessy and daughter, Jean, and Miss Eva Lukas were in Kingston recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Toney Kelsch visited his sister's home in Hurley Sunday.

Washington Daybook

By FREDERICK GROVER

WASHINGTON—The expected independent disposition of the incoming Congress presents a problem for the President as well as his leaders. He is for that reason surrendering no weapons that may be useful in a pinch.

That is a reasonable explanation to offer for his withholding of the score or more of important appointments pending these many months. The type of appointments pending in the executive bag are not the usual flow of patronage. They are super-gifts far beyond the realm of postmasters and traveling representatives of the federal trade commission.

Strategy

TO SOME it is sacrilege to talk of a Supreme Court appointment in the same sentence with patronage, but such offices are strategic weapons in the hands of a President faced by a laggard or unruly Congress.

He doesn't need to make the appointment in order to persuade a particular congressman to vote this way or that on a piece of legislation desired by the administration. He may fill a vacancy with a certain type of candidate simply to indicate his pleasure or displeasure with congressional action.

Certain it is that the appointment of Senator Black to the Supreme Court was more widely interpreted as a whack at the senate for defeating the court bill than as a recognition of Black's attainments as a jurist.

The kind of appointments the President has in reserve are those: a Supreme Court justice to succeed the late Justice Cardozo, an ambassador to Russia, ministers to Canada and Iran (Persia to me and you), a comptroller general, three circuit court justices, one

District of Columbia judge, 16 district judges, eight district attorneys, one member of the federal reserve board, one federal power commissioner, two interstate commerce commissioners, one member of the federal home loan bank board, one TVA director, one District of Columbia commissioner, and no end of subordinate positions likely to grow out of the shift of Harry Hopkins to the cabinet as secretary of commerce.

A Nice Help

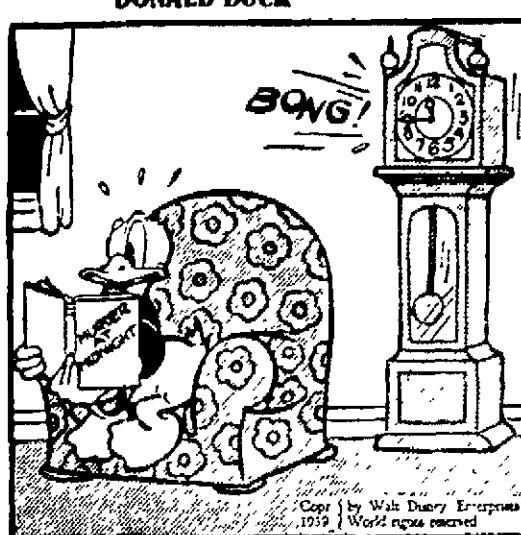

WITH the exception of some of the district attorney posts, these jobs all pay $10,000 and up, which is nice money even measured in terms of federal patronage.

There are those in congress who object to use of these appointments as "persuaders," particularly in the case of court appointments. But they recognize their weight.

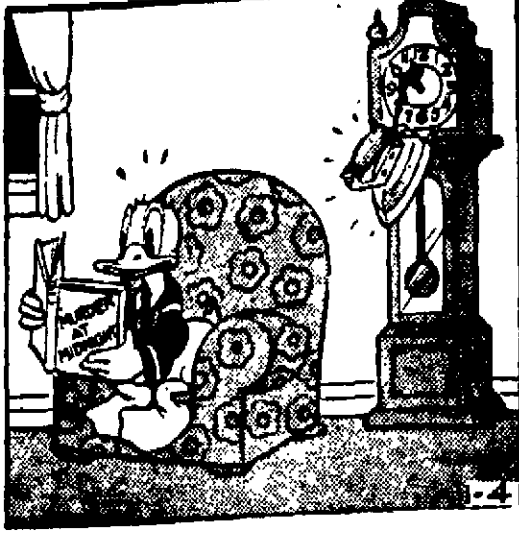

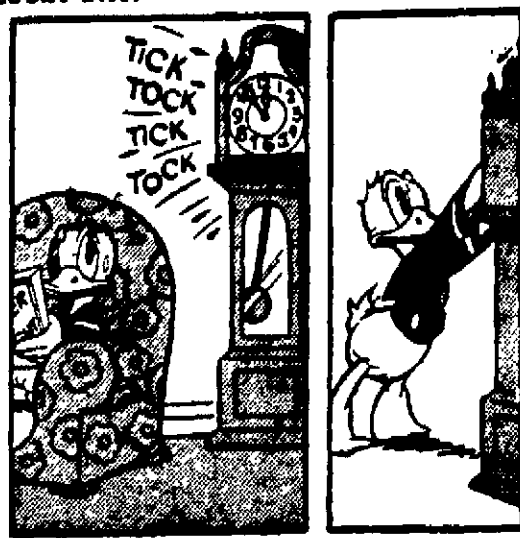

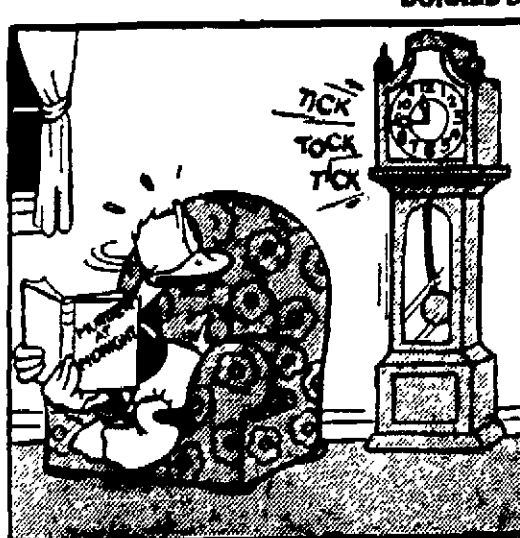

Of course there are hazards to a President in having so many places to fill. Astute politicians insist that one appointment makes one insincere friend and 100 ungenerous enemies.

Nevertheless it is well recognized here that a President with a flock of appointments to make is in a better position than one without any. And the President has at his command, as the new congress convenes, a listful rivaling in quality the list he had to fill when he took office.

So Little Little, So Little Little.

Will start a quarrel, feud or battle.

And turn old comrades "gals" each other.

Even turn a daughter from her mother.

So little praisings, it's amazing.

Will start the fires of friendship blazing.

To little not, but praise keep giving.

This is what makes life worth the living.

A visiting Scotchman went to the local municipal links for a round of golf. Selecting a caddy, he asked one apple-checked youngster:

Scotchman—Are you good at linkin' balls?

Caddy—Yer, indeed!

Scotchman—Well, thin, and one and we'll be stirlin'.

If people spoke only on subjects on which they are unqualified to speak, the world would be filled with a profound and disgusting silence.

Janey—Mother dear, I don't believe I can go to school today.

Mother (perplexed)—Why, dear?

Janey—"Cause I don't feel well."

Mother (sympathetically)—Where don't you feel well?

Janey—In school.

As the saying goes, we select our friends but our relatives are wished on us. If we only knew it, however, they too feel that they were cheated in the book-act.

At school for the first time, the small boy started to sob bitterly.

Teacher—What's the matter, Willie?

Willie—I don't like school. I've got to stay here till I'm 11.

Teacher—Don't let that worry you. I've got to stay here till I'm 65.

As the story goes, there was a flea in the elephant's ear when he crossed the bridge. "Say," said the flea, "didn't we make that old structure rattle?"

Read It Or Not?

The city of Hampton, Va., oldest continuous English-speaking settlement in America, is the only city in Virginia governed by a charter. It was recognized as a town by an act of the Virginia House of Burgesses in 1680.

Wife—The new maid has burned the bacon and eggs, darling. Wouldn't you be satisfied with a couple of kisses for breakfast?

Husband—Sure. Bring her in.

Another great American habit—Burning the breakfast food.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—Late date: Three men—a reporter, a film actor, and a taxi driver—are sitting in a restaurant off Times Square. The caddy has been waiting for the actor a long time and the actor, a kindly fellow, has called him in for a cup of coffee before they depart for some destination on East End avenue.

It is 2 a. m. The reporter looks at his watch. "I'd better call the office," he says, moving for the booth near the back.

The caddy says: "Something happened over on 3rd avenue. One of the boys just came from there. A back hit a car and killed a girl. It was very unusual. The car that the back struck smashed into the girl's cab and struck her in the back. She was dead before anyone got to her."

The actor, shaking his head, says: "Just then the reporter came back from the telephone. 'I gotta check on an accident. A girl was killed but they can't identify her. You be here when I come back'."

"Not I," says the actor. "I got a date. Kid that used to room with my sister. If I don't see her I can't go home, my sister would disown me."

"Okay," says the reporter, then, "Say, come on with me! You think the movies show you what life is. Come on over to the morgue."

"Wait a minute..." The actor scribbles a telephone number on a paper napkin. He calls the waiter. "Here's a dollar. Telephone this number and say that Mr. ... will be a little late, but he'll be there."

Outside, the actor, reporter and driver pile into the back. The driver cuts over toward Bellevue hospital. That's where the morgue is. That's where bodies are taken and placed on white marble slabs to await identification.

When they get there the reporter introduces the actor to the man in charge. "Found out who she was?"

"Not yet. Don't know a thing. But she was pretty as a picture. What to see her?"

The actor is excited, because all this is new to him. He says, "Maybe we ought to, I mean, let's see her."

They go back inside and the man in white removes a shroud.

THERE is a moment of profound silence. Then the man in white says, "That's her, boys. There she is."

The reporter shakes his head. "Not a day over 20 I'd say."

The actor says, "She was pretty, wasn't she?"

"Funny thing," says the man in white. "She had one green eye and one blue eye."

The actor starts tearing at something in his pocket. It is a photograph of this girl on the white marble slab.

Recent research indicates that a lack of vitamin A is more pronounced in persons over 40, perhaps because they may have become set in food habits and do not consider vitamins.

Howard Smith, who at the age of 17 was the drummer boy at the Broadway Theatre, is now with Les Brown's Duke University orchestra, which just closed an engagement at the Hotel Edison, on Times Square, New York city.

Howard is reported to be among the "tops" in his line and besides making Victor records with the Les Brown orchestra is heard with them in their weekly broadcasts over WABC. One admirer says that a notable feature of his work is the "Egyptian or oriental effect" of his cymbal crashes, and his accurate timing.

He is now with the orchestra in Boston and after the engagement there the orchestra is to go south to play engagements at Duke University and other colleges.

Youth's Body Found

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 3 (AP)—The two-month-old mystery of young George A. Russell's disappearance was dispelled today, as relatives claimed his body after it had been dramatically given up by the turbulent Niagara River—encased in an ice floe. "Suicide by drowning" was Medical Examiner Rocco N. De Dominicis' verdict in the death of the 19-year-old youth who on November 18 quarreled with a girl friend and then disappeared after parking his family's car in the middle of the International Peace Bridge.

Roosevelt Reads Annual Message

It proposed essentially only two new enactments, reorganization of the government departments for greater efficiency and aid for the railroads and other transportation problems.

In addition, the President advocated:

The "machining down" of some of the "new tools" of government forged by the New Deal.

Improvement of social security legislation.

Perfecting of labor organization and means "to end factional labor strife and employer-employee disputes."

Perfection of a farm program.

Tax Revisions

A revision of tax relationships between federal, state and local governments "and consideration of relatively small tax increases to adjust inequalities without increasing with the aggregate income of the American people."

The President told Congress "it does not seem logical to me, at the moment we seek to increase production and consumption, for the federal government to consider a drastic curtailment of its own investments."

Setting an $80,000,000,000 national income as the goal to be achieved so that "present" tax laws will yield enough each year to balance each year's expenses," the Chief Executive said:

"We have learned that it is unsafe to make abrupt reductions at any time in our net expenditure program."

Should Congress, he said, side with the point of view that spending should be balanced with the government's income, "it will logically have to reduce the present functions of government by one-third."

"The Congress will have to accept the responsibility for such reduction, and the Congress will have to determine which activities are to be reduced."

The address, broadcast by radio to every state in the Union and around the world in seven languages, hinted at possible measures against aggressors.

"We have learned," Mr. Roosevelt said, "that God-fearing democracies of the world which observe the sanctity of treaties and good faith in their dealings with other nations cannot safely be indifferent to international lawlessness anywhere."

"They cannot forever let pass, without effective protest, acts of aggression against sister nations—acts which automatically undermine all of us."

Along Practical Lines

"Obviously they must proceed along practical and peaceful lines. But the mere fact that we rightly decline to intervene with arms to prevent acts of aggression does not mean that we must act as if there were no aggression at all."

"Words may be futile, but war is not the only means of commanding a decent respect for the opinions of mankind."

"There are many methods short of war, but stronger and more effective than mere words, of bringing home to aggressor governments the aggregate sentiments of our own people."

"At the very least, we can and should avoid any action, or any lack of action, which will encourage, assist or build up an aggressor."

The President closed with a quotation from President Lincoln's message to Congress on emancipation.

"This generation will nobly save or meanly lose the last best hope of earth....The way is plain, peaceful, generous, just—a way which if followed the world will forever applaud and God must forever bless."

Might Open Review

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—The new Congress, already stewing over a half dozen peppy controversies, turned to President Roosevelt today for information on still another major problem—American foreign policy.

The belief was general on Capitol Hill that the Chief Executive's annual message might open the way for a review of the whole international situation in connection with defense needs.

The Senate and House arranged for a joint session to hear Mr. Roosevelt speak at 1 p. m., eastern standard time. Radio chains were hooked up to carry his 5,000-word address to the nation.

His message was a signal for Congress to buckle down to work after a brief, jovial session yesterday that belied growing disagreements over relief, presidential appointments, and labor laws.

Four major developments which have occurred since Mr. Roosevelt journeyed to the Capitol a year ago formed the background of his address today.

The Munich agreement between Germany, England, France and

Name Committees For Farm Program

The agricultural conservation program for 1939 is getting underway much earlier than any preceding year's program, it was announced today.

Organization meetings were held on Friday, December 30. Ulster county has been divided into three regions: Roundout Valley, Walkkill Valley, and the Kingston area. There are three regional committees to assist the county committee in making allotments and to answer questions about the program that the producers in their region might ask.

At the Modena meeting the Walkkill Valley regional committee was elected as follows:

Chairman, Gerow Schoonmaker; vice chairman, Joseph Hasbrouck; third member, Edward C. Quimby; first alternate, Charles Upright; second alternate, Timothy Sullivan; county committeeman, Frank E. Gaffney; alternate, Eber Coy.

The Roundout Valley regional committee elected as their committee at the Accord meeting:

Chairman, John L. Schoonmaker; vice chairman, Fred Simpson; third member, A. P. Kaplan; first alternate, Sam Stein; second alternate, Benjamin E. Davis; county committeeman, John J. Miller; alternate, John L. Schoonmaker.

At the Kingston meeting the following regional committee was elected: Chairman, Lemuel Bolce; vice chairman, Edward LeFevre; third member, John Ostrander; first alternate, Ira Palen; second alternate, Salvatore Modica; county committeeman, Harry J. Beatty; alternate, Theodor Oxholm.

At the county convention the county committee was set up as follows: Chairman, John J. Miller; vice chairman, Frank E. Gaffney; third member, Harry J. Beatty; alternates, John L. Schoonmaker and Eber Coy.

The 1939 program is much the same as the 1938 program. There are two kinds of farms: Allotment farms and non-allotment farms. The majority of the farms in Ulster county will be non-allotment farms. An important item to note is that allotments in 1939 are not a reduction but a usual acreage based on the average acreage for the crop in 1936-37.

Potato allotments will be set for farms that usually grow more than three acres of potatoes. Wheat allotments will be set for farms that usually grow more than eight acres of wheat.

Farms with a potato or wheat allotment, and that usually grow more than eight acres of corn for grain, will have an allotment on corn for grain.

Vegetable allotments will be set for farms with a 1936-37 average acreage of 3 acres or more of commercial vegetables.

Payments will be made for staying within allotments and deductions made for exceeding them.

The soil-building practices are about the same with the same rates of payment. They are: Establishing legume seedings, pasture seedings, applying fertilizers and lime, green manure and cover crops, mulching, setting trees and improving woodlands and soil erosion control practices.

It is anticipated that work on setting up allotments will be started almost immediately and that the sign-up will start early in February. Every farmer in Ulster county is eligible to participate in the program. Further information may be obtained at the Agricultural Conservation Office, 74 John street, Kingston.

Local Death Record

Mrs. Sarah M. Dart Robinson, widow of Clay Robinson, of Roxbury, died this morning at the residence of John Millard, 30 Henry street. Funeral services will be held Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the parlors of A. Carr & Son on Pearl street, with burial in the Roxbury Cemetery.

Ray Lewis, 60, died at his home in Modena, Tuesday of typhoid pneumonia. Surviving are his wife, formerly Margaret Loretta Gibson; two daughters, Mrs. Martha MacGregor of Morristown, N. J., and Margaret Lewis at home; two sons, Glenn and William Lewis. His funeral will be held Thursday at 10 a. m. at the Modena M. E. Church. Burial will be in Little Falls.

Highland, Jan. 4—Funeral services for the late Mrs. Mary Stabola Vertullo were held from her home on Vineyard avenue at 9 o'clock Monday morning and from St. Augustine's Church at 9:30 o'clock, where a high requiem Mass was held. Interment followed in the Highland Cemetery.

Mrs. Vertullo came from Italy when she was three years of age and has been a resident here for 31 years. She has been ill for the past six months and was 57 years old. Besides her husband, Nicholas Vertullo, she is survived by five sons, James, Frank, Dominick, Joseph and Patrick, of Highland; five daughters, Mrs. John Mazziotto and Mrs. John Crevino, of Poughkeepsie, Minetta, Mrs. Rocco Mazetti and Frances Vertullo, of Highland.

George B. Snyder died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Davis, at Olive Bridge, about noon Tuesday. He had been seriously ill for several days. Besides Mrs. Davis, Mr. Snyder is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Ruth Westbrook, and a brother, Edwin C. Snyder, of Saugerties. Mr. Snyder was a son of the late Peter Snyder and was born on a farm at Mt. Marion and went to Saugerties when his father embarked in the grocery and feed business in the building now occupied by the Saugerties Gas Co. on Main street, and was associated with his father in the business. After retiring from the grocery and feed business Mr. Snyder became superintendent of the John G. Myers estate and continued in this position for many years. He was also employed on the erstwhile Saugerties & New York Steamboat Co. boats. After leaving the latter position Mr. Snyder had lived with his daughter. His wife, the former Lettie Myer, died several years ago. Deceased was an ardent Democrat and had been active in the interests of the party for years. On a number of occasions he was a candidate of the party for local town offices. He was also an exempt fireman, having served the required time as an active fireman in Washington Hook & Ladder Co. At the time of his death Mr. Snyder was a member of the Exempt Firemen's Association. He was also a member of Ulster Lodge, No. 132, F. & A. M., of Saugerties.

Don Budge Pummels Vines Before Crowd in Garden Tennis

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Assuming that he was in earnest about quitting tennis and devoting himself to golf in case he found Don Budge too tough for him, Ellsworth Vines has the permission of 16,755 witnesses to wire home and have somebody start oiling up his golf clubs. ... For Budge gave the veteran an unmerciful lacing in their first professional match last night in Madison Square Garden, winding it up in 60 minutes by scores of 6-3, 6-4, 6-2. ... Vines entered the engagement as active 3-5 favorite in the lobby betting. He was confidently expected to mow down the regular. He came out of it profoundly shocked by the evident superiority of his opponent. ... "He was simply much too good for me tonight," he said. "I guess I didn't know quite how good Don had gotten. However, I'll do better with a little practice." ... Budge, perfectly at home under the lights, had little more difficulty handling Vines than he experienced the past year in salting down the world's amateurs. ... Under Budge's withering fire, Vines' backhand went completely to pieces, his forehand worked only in streaks, and after the first few games his vaunted serve, once winning 4-12, 12-9, 12-7, and didn't bother Budge at all. ... Someone suggested in the dressing room that Vines simply had been off his game. ... "Sure, he was off," said Bruce Barnes, a member of the troupe. "But it was Budge who put him off. Boy, I hadn't believed Don was that kind of a tennis player, but I sure believe it now." ... Last night's crowd didn't come near setting its $47,120 worth, and didn't hesitate to say so when Alice Marble tried to put in a word over the microphone about the bully tennis that had been played. ... In the doubles, Vines and Barnes, old partners, easily trimmed Budge and Dick Seane, 6-1, 6-1. ... Sweeney beat Barnes, 6-2, 6-1, in the preliminary singles.

Whizzer White Sails for Oxford

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—It is a long jump from Wellington, Colo. (Pop. 532) to Oxford, England, but Byron Raymond White, the beau model of football players, the Whizzer sailed aboard the S. S. Europa at midnight for England and his Rhodes scholarship, "even Stephen" with football after a four-months detour through the playing fields of the National Professional Football League. He is, he says, through with big time football but it's too early to know how much he'll miss it. ... "I guess I finished all even with the game," said Colorado's all-America halfback of 1937 and the star rookie pro player of 1938. "I had a lot of fun, but I did a lot of work. I got paid well. I have most of the $15,000 (the Pittsburgh Pirates gave me for the past season, but then I gave up certain things that I thought a lot for football. One of them was a start on this scholarship." ... How about the reports he would come back in the fall for another try at the pro game? ... "Gosh, not that I know of. I'll never be able to repay football for the things it has done for me, but I have to get to work." ... The Whizzer is as assured, as friendly and as straightforward as when he came to New York last winter with his Colorado basketball team and the country was going bug-eyed over his choice between football and a Rhodes scholarship. ... "They were nice about that at Oxford," said Whizzer. "Maybe I learned a lot out of the season too. They hit hard in that league and you learn a lot. Although I guess a struggling lawyer won't have to know much about running inside tackle, will he?" ... He paused as a tug booted long-sidely in the river, rested his big hands on a trunk and smiled, "but I'll miss football like the devil."

Bruins Too Good On Home Rink

(By The Associated Press)
The New York Americans have been enjoying their best hockey season on record and from all indications they'll keep on enjoying it. But it is quite apparent they're not good enough even this year to "take" the mighty Boston Bruins on the Bruins' home rink. ... They have visited Boston three times this season and have been beaten three times, out of a total of seven defeats. The latest setback was by a 2-1 count last night and it broke the Amer's four-game winning streak which included a 4-2 triumph over the Bruins at New York. In fact, the Amer's have lost only twice in their last nine games, both times at Boston. ... Last night's other game turned out to be a what-if-it affair as the Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens struggled to an uninspiring 2-2 tie. The Leafs this failed by a point to overtake the fourth-place Chicago Blackhawks and the Bruins were left two points behind Detroit.

Rondout Presbyterian vs. Woodstock, cancelled.

Stewart Out Of Hockey Game

Chicago, Jan. 4 (AP)—Bill Stewart was on the outside looking in today, less than a year after he was hailed as the "miracle man" of big league hockey. ... The plumpish, partly bald Stewart, fired as manager of the World Champion Chicago Blackhawks, said he was leaving the game game with regret and that now he planned a Florida vacation. ... "I'll get some sunshine now," he explained, "and I can stand some home cooking." In the spring Stewart resumes his job as a National League baseball umpire. ... Maj. Fred McLaughlin, owner of the Hawks, said Paul Thompson and Carl Voss, both veteran players, would direct the team as co-coaches the remainder of the season.

Kerhonkson Five At High Falls on Thursday Night

This week the High Falls Firemen will be hosts to the Kerhonkson Firemen in their regular Thursday night game at Firemen's Hall. They will use their regular lineup of Bush, Celuch, Brown, and Poir, Longenecker, Rask and Puffer. Kerhonkson has announced its starting lineup in the preliminary the Falls Juniors will play the Gems at 7:30. Dancing will follow the game.

Firestones' Captain

HOWARD "SOUL" CABLE

Here's the boss of the Akron Firestones, the western tossers who play the Colonials at the municipal auditorium Thursday night. He is a forward on the quintet for which he has been one of the leading scorers for the past five years. ... This 190 pounder, standing six feet, three inches, is a product of Akron University. Last year he was one of the leading point makers of the National Basketball League. The Colonials will have no easy time of it when Cable and his band of cagers cut loose tomorrow night.

Colonials at Troy Tonight, Play Firestones on Thursday

The Colonials put on a stellar show in overwhelming the Trojans, excelling in every phase of the game. However, with the Haymakers on their home court, there may be some difference. The last time Kingston played at Troy, the Haymakers ran them into an extra period and the margin of victory for the potential champs of the American League was by two points. ... Kingston is anxious about tonight's skirmish, Thursday's exhibition at the auditorium with the famous Firestone's and Saturday's clash at Philadelphia with Eddie Gottlieb's Sphas. ... The Colonials are tied with the Phillys for the league lead right now and their chances of running out the Quaker City boys for the first half championship looks very bright.

JUST BEFORE THE BATTLE

This was the friendly scene when Don Budge (left) and Ellsworth Vines (right) made ready to battle in a pro tennis match at Madison Square Garden in New York City, which was to serve as the California red-headed former Davis Cup star's debut in the professional game. "Keeping the antagonists apart" was Fred Perry, another famed amateur, who found the lure of the money game too strong.

Foxs Gets Trophy
Boston, Jan. 4 (AP)—Jimmy Foxs, the American League's outstanding player of 1938 and its 349-hitting champion batsman, today was voted the Eddie Hurley Memorial Plaque by the Boston chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

In the City League League basketball matches last night, at the municipal auditorium, the Uptown Merchants defeated the J.Y.A., 42-23, the Elks edged out a 26-23 win over the Kalamazoo. And the Baltz five won by forfeit from the Kinneys, but dropped a decision in an exhibition with the Shomans, 28-34.

The Kinneys used Follente, an ineligible player, and for this reason could not be credited with a win in the National Division standings. Jim Freiligh led the K's with 17 points, Bruce made 14 for the Baltz quintet. ... Follente to show strength against the Uptown Merchants, the J.Y.A. bowed to the business boys, who were led by Halstein and Snyder with 18 and 16 points, respectively. Fertel made 12 points for the J.Y.A.

The thriller of the night was the Elks' victory over the Kalamazoo. After trailing throughout the game, the Elks bounced into the lead on Eddie Van Deusen's three sensational bunts, giving the Big Horns their 26-23 victory. ... Van Deusen scored 13 points for high tally of the contest. Van Euren and Bailey made eight and seven for the Kalamazoo.

Benjamin St. John Is Burned Badly Near Summitville

Benjamin St. John, 73 years old and for 37 years employed on the O. & W. Railroad, was badly burned by live steam Friday last shortly before he pulled his train to Summitville station on the return run from Kingston. Mr. St. John is the oldest engineer on the Southern Division. For many years he lived in Kingston.

After years on the run from Kingston he was transferred to a run from Summitville to Monticello and moved to Summitville where he now makes his home. Recently he was placed on the Kingston Summitville run.

Friday as his train was near Summitville the steam heating broke loose filling the cab with super-heated steam which tore through the cab under approximately 175 pounds pressure.

Mr. St. John was very severely burned about the face and hands and when his gloves were removed at Middletown Hospital where he is now confined portions of the flesh came off with the gloves. His face was badly scalded by the steam and his eyes injured. The extent to which his eyes were burned is not definitely known.

About the Folks

George J. Stork of 80 Parkway Road, Bronxville, who spent Christmas vacation with William McManus of Franklin street, returned to his home on Tuesday.

Court Teresa, No. 277, C. D. of A., will hold a reception on Monday evening, January 9, at 8:30 o'clock at the Elks Club in Catskill. The members of the local Court Santa Maria No. 161, C. D. of A., have been invited to attend.

Murder and Suicide

Binghamton, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP)—Two men were dead at Chenango Forks today after what Coroner Carl D. McEacham said was a "murder and suicide." McEacham, in giving his verdict, said Herbert F. Beckley, 53, shot and killed A. B. Tanner, 60, former pastor of the Tabernacle Presbyterian Church here, and then sent a bullet through his own heart. The coroner said the pair had argued over management of the farm on which they lived.

Ferry Goes Aground

St. Ignace, Mich., Jan. 4 (AP)—Attempts were being made today to free the 352-foot railroad ferry Chief Wawatom, which went aground Tuesday on the North Graham shoals in a snow storm. The ferry carries a crew of 33 men and has food for a week.

Financial and Commercial

All Classes of Securities Show Losses Tuesday

Although the attitude of business generally and such business news as featured the first working day of the new year was favorable, stocks failed to follow the course set during the last four sessions in 1938, but instead reverted to the line of procedure that marked the opening session of last year and sold off. Volume was less than had been expected, total being 1,150,000 shares and all classes of securities showed a loss for the day. Industrial issues were down 1.13 points, to 153.64 in the Dow-Jones average; rails lost 0.20 point, to 33.78 and utilities declined 0.17 point, to 22.85. Closing prices were under the highs for the day. A break in the aircraft issues unsettled the market to some extent and further the conveying of Congress and anticipation of what the President's message might bring forth helped to make traders cautious.

Commodities were steady, with wheat up as much as two cents a bushel in Chicago, futures reaching the highest level in months. Corn was unchanged to up half a cent. Hide futures were off 13 to 17 points, silk futures declined, cotton was unchanged to up six points.

There was much interest in the annual report of the Interstate Commerce Commission, presented to Congress yesterday. The commission disapproves of the recommendation of the President's railroad committee that railroads should be given greater freedom in making rates and favored coordination of roads instead of major consolidations at this time. A comprehensive survey of the causes and effects of the railroad problem is presented and governmental leadership in rehabilitating the carriers is called for.

Steel operations this week are scheduled at 50.7 per cent of capacity, a greater recovery than had been expected in trade circles, following the holiday let-down to 38.8 per cent. In the first week of 1938 the rate stood at 25.6 per cent.

Drastic legislation regarding bank holding companies may be introduced at this session of Congress; outright abolition of these units may be sought.

Continental Motors Corp. reports net loss of $548,287 in fiscal year ended October 31, vs. net profit of $71,335 in preceding fiscal year. Net loss of Hayes Body Corp. in fiscal year ended September 30 was $335,257. Delect in preceding year was $53,643.

Collins & Aukman Corp. had indicated net income of $909,519 in quarter ended November 26, equal to $1.51 a common share. In previous quarter had net loss of $136,125.

It is stated that shipments of Hudson Motor Car Co. since start of 1939 model production already are equal to half total shipments in 1938 season.

According to F. W. Dodge Corp. construction awards in 37 eastern states from January 1 to December 31, 1938, totaled $3,054,417,000 as against $2,861,933,000 in like period in 1937.

There was pressure of sterling yesterday, which reached close to the low levels of the September crisis. Spot silver in London was highest in over a year and gold went to the highest price on record.

Quotations at 2 O'clock

Steel shares pushed ahead in the stock market today after a faltering start. Even some aviation shares which slipped fractions to a point or more in early trading managed small gains.

Crucible Steel, which might be expected to benefit from any extensive rearmament program, was in demand and near noon was about two points ahead. Other gainers of fractions to around a point were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Boeing, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Lockheed, International Nickel, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Montgomery Ward and Celanese.

In arrears were Douglas, Sperry, New York Central, Western Union, American Can, du Pont, International Harvester and American Smelting.

Mr. Van Gaasbeek brought Walker to the hospital where his condition today was reported as fair.

News of interest to fraternal organizations. Aretas Lodge, 172, I. O. O. F., will hold a regular meeting tonight at 8 o'clock.

Camp 30, P. O. A., will hold installation of officers tonight at 8 o'clock in Mechanics' Hall, 14 Henry street. Refreshments will be served.

Installation of officers will take place at the meeting of Kingston Council No. 124, Sons and Daughters of Liberty to be held in Mechanics' Hall on Thursday evening, January 5. The installation ceremony will be under the direction of Mary Bishop of Port Ewen, who holds the office of State Deputy and the new councilor to be installed is Mrs. Louise Hahn. Esopus Council No. 42, of Port Ewen has been extended an invitation to attend the meeting. Following the meeting refreshments will be served.

Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F. & A. M., the newly elected officers participated in a "question-bee" in which each of the officers were questioned as to his individual duties in connection with his office. Under the direction of Samuel D. Scudder, Jr., master, the affair was most interesting and instructive. At the conclusion of the business session a surprise birthday party was given by the members of the lodge to their newly elected treasurer, Frank D. Winne. The party was highly successful and at the close ice cream and cake were served.

Incompatibility? Pooh! London (AP)—"Incompatibility of temperament" is a lovely phrase, invented by a Victorian novelist, but it does not mean anything at all. So said Judge Langton in the divorce court.

Shriners to Give Outstanding Show

The Shriners have been active for several days contracting some of the best acts now appearing in New York city for the ball and entertainment Wednesday evening, January 11, in the municipal auditorium. It was announced today.

This year the Shriners plan to make the program a gala affair, lasting well over one hour. It will be staged on the floor of the auditorium so everyone will have the opportunity of witnessing every act with the least inconvenience.

Among the many numbers on the program which the Shriners feel will prove an outstanding hit will be Miss Jeanette Hackett, former dancing star of Ziegfeld Follies, supported by her troupe of eight gorgeous dancing artists.

Miss Hackett will give as one of her numbers her world renowned butterfly dance assisted by her girls dressed as fireflies making a most beautiful ensemble specialty.

Miss Hackett will also present a comedy dance number with a surprising comedy dance partner "The Thin Man" in competition with 16 other comedy dancers in a "shag" exhibition of the most surprising order.

In order to accommodate the large attendance expected, the Shriners are planning on opening the auditorium doors promptly at 7 o'clock.

Tickets can be purchased at the door next Wednesday evening or from any Shriner.

Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F. & A. M., the newly elected officers participated in a "question-bee" in which each of the officers were questioned as to his individual duties in connection with his office. Under the direction of Samuel D. Scudder, Jr., master, the affair was most interesting and instructive. At the conclusion of the business session a surprise birthday party was given by the members of the lodge to their newly elected treasurer, Frank D. Winne. The party was highly successful and at the close ice cream and cake were served.

Incompatibility? Pooh! London (AP)—"Incompatibility of temperament" is a lovely phrase, invented by a Victorian novelist, but it does not mean anything at all. So said Judge Langton in the divorce court.

Speaker to Demonstrate Bad Effects of Alcohol

Police Seek Joker

Cortland, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP)—Police sought today the author of a fake telegram which brought Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stone here from Moline, Ill., in the belief the former's father was critically ill in a Syracuse hospital. The elder Stone, in excellent health, was located in his Cortland home after his son and daughter-in-law, aided by police, had frantically searched Syracuse hospitals.

Shriners to Give Outstanding Show

The Shriners have been active for several days contracting some of the best acts now appearing in New York city for the ball and entertainment Wednesday evening, January 11, in the municipal auditorium. It was announced today.

This year the Shriners plan to make the program a gala affair, lasting well over one hour. It will be staged on the floor of the auditorium so everyone will have the opportunity of witnessing every act with the least inconvenience.

Among the many numbers on the program which the Shriners feel will prove an outstanding hit will be Miss Jeanette Hackett, former dancing star of Ziegfeld Follies, supported by her troupe of eight gorgeous dancing artists.

Miss Hackett will give as one of her numbers her world renowned butterfly dance assisted by her girls dressed as fireflies making a most beautiful ensemble specialty.

Miss Hackett will also present a comedy dance number with a surprising comedy dance partner "The Thin Man" in competition with 16 other comedy dancers in a "shag" exhibition of the most surprising order.

In order to accommodate the large attendance expected, the Shriners are planning on opening the auditorium doors promptly at 7 o'clock.

Tickets can be purchased at the door next Wednesday evening or from any Shriner.

Lehman Delivers Message Today

Message February 1

The governor avoided specific recommendations on the controversial problem of unemployment relief which he termed "the most important and delicate one that confronts government." He said he would present his views on the subject in his annual budget message to be submitted to the legislature before February 1.

He listed the subjects of reapportionment and water power as "failures of the constitutional convention," in which an amendment that would have guaranteed state ownership and control of water power was defeated. The convention, however, adopted a reapportionment measure which was rejected by the voters. Governor Lehman and other Democratic leaders assailed it as "vicious and unjust."

If the legislature fails to approve another amendment for reapportionment after 1940, the governor recommended that provision be made for a reapportionment by a constitutional commission consisting of the governor, temporary president of the Senate, the speaker of the Assembly, the attorney general and the secretary of state.

In discussing health insurance, the governor cited an increase in the number of voluntary health insurance organizations and a "growing demand" for a compulsory health insurance plan "administered by government."

"It is inadvisable for the state immediately to launch upon a program which will involve very large expenditures without first making a thorough study of all aspects of the problem."

Recommend Commission

"I recommend, therefore, that the legislature have a commission which will include as members not only legislators but several public health experts and several representatives of the medical profession."

Urging the study, the governor said "sickness is directly responsible for 30 to 40 per cent of all cases requiring public or private charity."

Declaring the constitutional amendment creating the loan fund for a low-cost housing is "comprehensive in its provisions, as it should be," the governor added: "It does not follow, however, that the state should immediately exhaust all the powers granted. The course of wisdom dictates some restraint so that we may adjust and readjust our plans, if necessary, in the light of accumulated experience."

The chief executive asserted that success of any housing or slum-clearance program is "predicated upon a partnership between the three governments—federal, state and local. It is my firm belief that all three must participate; that all three must assist financially."

Equal Protection

He saw an amendment that forbids discrimination against any person because of race, color or creed as "one of the splendid provisions of the new constitution" and said:

"The equal protection of the laws is the greatest blessing that can be conferred by a democracy upon its citizens. I recommend to your honorable bodies legislative action that will give real significance to the declared principle."

"Whatever may be needed in the way of legislative or executive initiative and action to foster and promote cooperation between farmer and government in improving the agricultural situation was urged by the governor."

He reported that cash farm income, "despite the severe curtailment of consumer purchasing power" will not be "greatly below" the 1937 figure of $312,000,000. This showing, he added, would contrast with a "severe decline in agricultural income elsewhere in the nation."

The governor lauded the recently adopted federal-state milk marketing agreement.

"In the few months that this authority has been exercised over all milk from the seven states comprising the metropolitan milk shed, conditions in the dairy industry have steadily improved. Prices to producers are increasing. Market conditions which during the summer were chaotic, are again stabilized."

The agreement sets minimum prices and establishes numerous regulations for milk delivered in New York city.

The governor recommended: "Improvement in the method of marketing other New York farm products to meet the competition by other states."

State participation in the fight to eradicate Bangs disease among cattle, for which the governor said he had included an appropriation in his executive budget.

Continued state support of agriculture research and education.

Continuance of the state program of soil conservation and flood control, termed "two of the best means" of insuring natural productivity of farm land.

Diversification of crops by farmers, who hitherto have been dependent on one product.

Continuation of the state's publicity campaign to increase milk consumption.

Turning to the public utility field, the governor cited reductions, since 1930, of nearly $39,000,000 in electric, gas, water and telephone rates, plus $1,370,000 further savings to consumers under orders effective January 1.

"While the results achieved are naturally very gratifying," he said, "there are certain amendments to the public service law which ought promptly to be made in order to protect further the consumer."

His suggestions included state regulation of companies buying electricity from a public utility and selling it to their tenants; restriction of utility company accounting to one set of books as prescribed by the public service commission; the placing of responsibility on the company for seeing that a consumer is charged the "proper service rate rather than the consumer's selection," and a requirement that depreciation be shown currently on company books.

The governor also recommended: "Legislation to clarify the intent of a law passed by the 1938 legislature which make women eligible to serve as grand jurors. An adequate system of statewide control and regulation of outdoor advertising."

Short Session Predicted

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP)—A short session of the 162nd legislature, dominated by Republicans, was predicted as it convened today to hear Democratic Governor Herbert H. Lehman's annual message.

Leaders said few controversial subjects would be presented and some foresaw adjournment by the end of March. The only controversial questions on the horizon were relief.

The Republican Senate unanimously selected last year to select its leader, Peter A. Fischer, of Watertown, for majority leader, and the Republican Assemblyman voted to retain Oswald D. Heck of Schenectady as speaker and Irving Ives of Norwich, as majority leader.

Minority Democrats in both Senate and Assembly caucuses also retained their leaders, Senator John J. Dunnigan and Assemblyman Irwin Steingut, both of New York city.

Legislative developments included: "Indication that one of the most disputed proposals, health insurance, would be sidetracked until 1940. A measure, approved by the state's constitutional convention and the November electorate, would permit the legislature to provide aid for the needy by insurance against sickness."

Adoption of a "hands off" policy by the state Republican executive committee in regard to legislative affairs unless invited by the Republican legislative leadership.

Loss of American Labor Party representation on the Assembly's powerful rules committee, with reduction of the group's membership from 16 to 15.

William Kling, of Columbia county, was designated as the Republican choice for Senate clerk at the Senate caucus. Four Senators were excused from voting.

The Democrats failed to nominate a candidate.

Dunnigan, immediately after his designation as majority leader, said that Matthew J. Murphy, Niagara county Democratic leader, would be named his deputy clerk at $8,000 annually.

Only two of the 27 committee chairmanships in the Senate have been decided upon thus far, Fischer said. Senator George Thompson, Nassau county, would be chairman of the finance committee, he asserted, and Benjamin Feinberg of Plattsburg, was slated for the judiciary chairmanship.

The Assembly retained Ansley B. Borkowski of Buffalo as clerk, and with one exception renewed all former officers.

Joseph C. Williams of Granville was selected principal doorkeeper to succeed the late Herman Sullivan of Whitehall, Richard Schuor, Armonk, sergeant-at-arms; Walter F. Berry, Rochester, stenographer, and Frank G. Bates, Greenfield, first assistant doorkeeper.

Minor legislative officers agreed upon by the Senate included: Harold W. Cole, Hurleyville, Sullivan county, sergeant-at-arms; Lynn Corman, Mohawk, Herkimer county, assistant sergeant-at-arms; Henry Whitbeck, Cherry Valley, Otsego county, principal doorkeeper; David Snoved, Troy, first assistant doorkeeper.

Vitis J. Boyle, formerly with Republican gubernatorial Candidate Thomas E. Dewey during his campaign, was named Republican legislative publicity representative.

Emperor Orders New Cabinet

June 4, 1937, a month before the China war began.

He declared upon his resignation today that "the China incident has now entered a new state and the time has come when the government must concentrate its efforts on construction of a new order to maintain lasting peace in East Asia."

He expressed conviction it was "urgently necessary to enhance the confidence of the nation by formulating new policies under a new cabinet," although the "unshakable fundamental policy" (to force a China regime favorable to Japan) had been "established and approved by His Majesty, the Emperor."

With the conventional reference to his own "lack of ability," he said he often thought himself unable to cope with the war crisis but "the seriousness of the times did not allow a change of cabinet until now."

Fire in Port Ewen

The Port Ewen Fire Department was called out shortly after 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon for a fire in the kitchen of the apartments of Reginald Van Leuven on Broadway, opposite Spiny's in that village. The curtains at one of the windows had caught fire from the gas stove, and there was smoke damage. Mr. Van Leuven extinguished the fire before the firemen reached the house.

To Resume Classes

Classes in limbering and body-building will be resumed Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A., with Miss Orlita Riccobono as the instructor. Enrollment is still open for the new term and may be made through the Y. W. C. A.

Three Girls Drown

Landsdowne, Md., Jan. 4 (AP)—Three school girls, Shirley and Joan McEvoy, sisters, aged 13 and nine years, respectively, and Patsy Grace, 12, drowned late yesterday when they crashed through two-inch ice at Old Red Lake.

Patrons Are Asked To Pay for Seals

Early payment on Christmas seals sent out to thousands of residents in the county to aid in carrying on the fight against tuberculosis and other diseases, was requested today by members of the Christmas Seal Committee.

"There are still some seals unaccounted for," said Joseph M. Fowler, "We know that they probably are mislaid and forgotten in the rush of Christmas. Before we can complete our report, however, we must account for every seal mailed out. Those who can make a contribution for anti-tuberculosis work are urged to do so at once. Those who cannot afford to keep their seals are asked to help the committee complete its work by returning at once the seals sent them."

"A complete list is kept of every name to which Christmas seals were mailed and the number sent. In this way the committee is able to account for every seal."

"The response to the seal has been gratifying but every cent is needed to carry out the program for 1939."

The maintenance of the Health Camp for Ulster county children. County nurse service at clinics, assistance in tuberculosis testing and visiting in homes of patients and families.

The educational preventive program—distribution of leaflets, talks, movies, etc., given to groups and carried on to fight tuberculosis, syphilis and other diseases.

Although the death rate has been substantially cut in Ulster county extensive work is especially needed because of the high mortality experienced for many years in this section.

Common Council Adopts Budget

granted, but fortunately we found it unnecessary to utilize the authority and no funds were borrowed.

It often becomes necessary to borrow temporarily at the beginning of a fiscal year because of unpaid taxes and uncollected revenues. When the 1938 budget was made up, the total expenses of operating the government was offset by the real estate taxes levied and the anticipated collection of other revenues.

As of this date, unpaid general taxes amount to about $39,800.00 and unpaid welfare and relief reimbursements due from the State of New York amount to about $33,000.00, a total of $72,800.00 which was anticipated to be received in the 1938 budget but which we have not yet collected. If these sums had been paid to this office it would not be necessary, of course, to ask for authority to make this temporary loan.

In addition to the unpaid taxes mentioned above, there remains unpaid as of this date the sum of $25,100.00 in school taxes which were anticipated in the separate budget of the Board of Education and have not yet been collected.

Seeks $2,000 Damages

A claim to obtain $2,000 from the city for alleged injuries sustained in a fall on the sidewalk in front of the National Ulster County Bank on Wall street was filed with the council by Ruth Kearney of 664 Broadway through her attorney, Herman L. Katz. She claimed she was injured November 18 of last year.

The claim was referred to the auditing committee and corporation council.

Leases to NYA

City Clerk E. J. Dempsey reported that in compliance with the provisions of an ordinance adopted last year by the council he had offered at public sale the lease to the property of Reservoir No. 2 on the Woodstock-Saugerties road at his office on December 28, and that only one bidder appeared, N. S. Fowler, representing the advisory committee of the National Youth Administration, whose bid of $1 a year for the lease of the property owned by the city water department was accepted.

The NYA plans later in the year to use the reservoir property for a work center for young folks.

Seek Gas Taxes

Alderman Robertson of the Third ward and Alderman Donnamma of the Sixth ward, both offered resolutions urging Senator Wicks and Assemblyman Conway to use their efforts to have state legislation introduced and passed whereby cities could obtain a share of the state gasoline taxes.

To Study Charter

President John J. Schwenk announced the discharge of the charter planning committee appointed last year, stating that the study of the charter would be made by the laws and rules committee. Mayor Heiselman in his annual message had recommended that a study of charter changes be made.

James Peters Is Killed

Los Angeles, Jan. 4 (AP)—James Peters, 57, president of the Surety Mortgage Company of Portland, Ore., was killed in a fist fight with an unidentified assailant in a downtown parking lot early today. The slugging escaped.
